John B. Espey, HARDWARE,

INJURIES WERE FATAL

DEATH OF CHARLES J. KELLOGG AT GEORGETOWN HOSPITAL.

Fall From Electric Car Causes Concussion of the Brain-Treasury Department Clerk.

Charles J. Kellogg, a law clerk in the United States Treasury Department, who was rendered unconscious by falling from the rear end of a Washington Traction car near the corner of 36th and P streets, Georgetown, about 6:30 o'clock yesterday evening, died about 8 o'clock this morning at the Georgetown University Hospital, to which he was taken soon after the accident. Mr. Kellogg was talking with a friend, Mr. James R. Hardy, on the rear platform when the car reached 36th street, and the latter states that both were taken unawares when the curve was turned and Mr. Kellogg, who was standing near the

Mr. Kellogg, who was standing near the trailer, was thrown headlong to the pavement. He was taken to the hospital in an unconscious condition and death resulted from concussion of the brain.

Mr. Kellogg came to Washington from New Orleans, La., and for several years had held a position as law clerk in the customs division of the treasury. He was a graduate of the National Law School and had received the degrees of master of arts and doctor of civil laws from Columbian University. He was regarded by his superiors as a man of excellent character and brilliant attainments. He was also known to be a man of exemplary habits. Deceased was thirty-eight years of age. He was unmarried.

Friends of the young man in the city have notified his relatives in New Orleans and no arrangements for the funeral will be made until their wishes are communicated. It is thought probable that the remains will be taken to his native state for burial. An inquest will be held by the coroner omorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

ALEXANDRIA AFFAIRS

BAPTIST CHURCH DAMAGED BY FIRE LAST NIGHT.

Citizens Likely to Lose Votes Through Neglect - Woman Narrowly Escapes Fatal Injuries.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., November 30, 1904. Pedestrians on South Washington street ast night about 7 o'clock observed fire and moke issuing from the belfry of the First Baptist Church, situated on Washington street between Prince and Duke streets, and an alarm was made, which was transmitted to the fire department over the telephone by Judge J. K. M. Norton, who resides near the church. The engines promptly responded and the efficient work of the firemen saved the house of worship from destruction. Damage to the extent of several hundred dollars was caused by fire and water. The church is insured in the sum of $8,000. The origin of the fire is not known. It is tated that there had been no fire in the furnace of the building since Sunday evenno one in the belfry since the sexton rang the bell for the services then. James Taylor, the colored janitor, was in the building several times yesterday, but if any one else was there after the last visit of the janitor to a considerable height from the north-west corner of the structure. The flames were rapidly spreading when the depart-ment arrived, but had not extended to the handsome organ which is situated near the entrance of the belfry. The church is a substantial brick building, but there is a substantial brick building, but there was sufficient woodwork to have furnished the means for a big fire had there been any delay in quenching the flames.

Rev. John A. Wray, the pastor, has been tendered the use of Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church and the Washington Street Southern Methodist Church, during whatever time it may be necessary to repair the damages.

Payment of Tax Requisite to Voting. Under the suffrage provision of the new state constitution voters who have not paid their poll tax of $1.50 by this evening will not be cligible to vote in elections occurring in 1905. It is expected that several citizens who have not yet attended to this matter will make use of the last oppor-tunity offered today. Last year the time for the payment of the poll tax as a pre-requisite to voting was extended by special legislation, but no such provision has been

General Matters.

Mrs. M. Lauphelmer, who resides on Royal street between King and Cameron streets, had a narrow escape from being fatally burned yesterday. While lighting a fire the flame caught in her hair. Mrs. Laupheimer at once seized a piece of carpet, with which she smothered the blaze. She was painfully injured.

A man giving his name as Patrick O'Neal was called in the police court this morning on the charge of stealing three bed com-forts from in front of the store of Swan Bros. on King street, Monday night. The prisoner entered a denial, but as he had been seen in front of the store before the hour of closing and had been apprehended attempting to sell bed clothes, Justice Caton imposed a fine of $5. In default of this amount O'Neal will spend twenty days
